

Dear colleagues,

We are pleased to invite you to an interactive Leadership Forum in Higher Education, an online conference on improving the quality of teaching in internationalised medical higher education.

The conference presents the findings of CLILMED, an Erasmus+ Strategic Partnership. In this project, which draws upon evidence-based innovative pedagogies, we have developed tools for the professional development of medical educators for the multilingual and multicultural learning space.

During the conference we will discuss how we can transform the traditional teacher-centred model and how to support medical educators in creating learning opportunities for students in a way fitting the needs of today's global societies. We will also address how the project supports Sustainable Development Goal 4, which calls for higher education institutions to enhance the quality of education.

Title: Students in Focus: Learning-Centred Pedagogy that Transforms Higher Education
